ESTUDIOS IRLANDESES. SPECIAL ISSUE
ECO-FICTIONS, THE ANIMAL TROPE AND IRISH STUDIES

Electronic Journal of the Spanish Association for Irish Studies (AEDEI)

https://www.estudiosirlandeses.org
ARTICLES

MARGARITA ESTÉVEZ-SAÁ, MANUELA PALACIOS-GONZÁLEZ AND NOEMÍ PEREIRA-ARES
Introduction: Eco-Fictions, The Animal Trope and Irish Studies ................................................................. 1

ROMAN BARTOSCH
Seven Types of Animality, Or: Lessons from Reading and Teaching Animal Fictions ........................................ 6

ALBERTO LÁZARO-LA FUENTE
The Representation of Jonathan Swift’s Human and Non-Human Animals in Spain: Censorship, Biopolitics, and the Sinclair Trial ................................................................. 20

MARÍA JOSÉ CARRERA
Frances Power Cobbe on Brutes, Women, and the Irish (Human) Landscape: Ethics, Environment and Imperialism ................................................................. 31

MAUREEN O’CONNOR
Alice’s Garden: Imagining Agency in the Natural World in Clare Boylan’s Black Baby ........................................ 42

MARÍA JESÚS LORENZO-MODIA
Medbh McGuckian and Ecofeminist Anxiety: ‘The Post Contingency of Befalling’ ........................................ 53

VERÓNICA MEMBRIVE-PÉREZ
Pearse Hutchinson’s Ecopoetics on Spain (1950s-1960s) ........................................................................ 65

ARANCHA RODRÍGUEZ-FERNÁNDEZ
Our Shared Japan: Contemporary Spaces of Love and Exoticism in Irish Women's Poetry ................................. 78

AUXILIADORA PÉREZ-VIDES
The Noir Landscape of Dublin in Benjamin Black’s Quirke Series .................................................................. 90

MANUELA PALACIOS-GONZÁLEZ AND LUZ MAR GONZÁLEZ-ARIAS
‘Schoolchildren would not now be protesting had Greta Thunberg not made her stand. Writers have begun to take note’. An Interview with Celia de Fréine ......................................................... 102

MARGARITA ESTÉVEZ-SAÁ
‘An artist, first and foremost’: An Interview with Sara Baume ........................................................................ 117

MANUELA PALACIOS-GONZÁLEZ, MARGARITA ESTÉVEZ-SAÁ AND NOEMÍ PEREIRA-ARES (SEL.)
The Woman & the Animal Trope: A Critical Selection of Contemporary Irish Poetry ........................................ 129